"HER FACE VALUE"
Two-reel CENTURY Comedy
Featuring
Waunda Wiley, Harry McCoy and
HILLIARD KARR.

While Harry and Karr are frolicing around at the club, one of their fellow members reads in the paper of another "Honor System" prisoner gone wrong. This starts an argument and Harry bets Karr that he can take a prisoner and by putting him in the proper environment, make him go straight.

While this is going on a poor hungry girl, out of work, is arrested for stealing a purse, which she really had retrieved from a highwayman for the lady. She is taken to the police station and arrives shortly after Harry and Karr who have come for a prisoner to settle their bet. They take the young lady and Harry gives her a job as a maid in his house. She is so grateful to him for his kindness that she tries to make love to him and failing in all other attempts borrows some fine clothes and goes to a party. Suddenly one of the guests misses her necklace and the poor girl is accused. Harry sees the real crook escaping through the window, however, and gives chase. It takes him quite a time to get him, but he succeeds, eventually and brings him back to the house with the stolen necklace. The young girl is innocent and Harry wins his bet and the girl.
